e-learning for healthcare (e-LfH)

e-LfH is an award winning programme offering e-learning to support the health and care workforce, with hundreds of learning opportunities, including many related to public health. For example, the Population Health Management Programme includes:

Introduction to Population Health Management – what it is, why it's important and what you need to get started

Assessing Needs - this session describes the main stages in the process to assess needs of a population

A Practical Introduction to Population Segmentation - a practical step by step run through of the methods needed to undertake population segmentation as part of a population health management approach, with signposting to complementary resources, examples and user stories

Risk Stratification - a practical run through of the methods needed to undertake risk stratification as part of a population health management approach

Introduction to Population Health Surveillance - this session describes the concept of population health surveillance and how it can be used to identify and monitor threats to the health of the population, so that actions can be taken.

Public Health Ethics has been added to e-LfH, including an introduction, basic theoretical underpinnings, frameworks and case studies

Health Equity Assessment Tool \(HEAT\) e-learning goes step by step through this tool to systematically identify and address health inequalities and equity in work programmes or services.

Introduction to Population Health Management module and communications assets published.

The refresh of the Introduction to PHM eLearning module is now complete along with a suite of PHM communications assets to help systems promote local and national eLearning offers.

These assets bring together messaging on health inequalities, PHM, personalised care and prevention. They include a messaging framework 'Know, Connect, Prevent', a short explainer film PHM: proactive, targeted healthcare for your community and three short films showing 'what PHM means to me' as a GP, public health specialist and voluntary sector worker. There are also social media clips, infographics, screen savers and e mail signatures. The assets were co-produced with system communication and engagement leads.

Here are the finished links available on the Population Health Academy:

Population Wellbeing Portal

Health Education England (HEE) worked with Public Health England (PHE), the Academy for Public Health for London and Kent, Surrey and Sussex and the Faculty of Public Health to develop a Population Wellbeing Portal within e-LfH.

The portal offers free e-learning resources, training and education in population health, wellbeing and prevention. It provides a central location for free training and education resources relating to the health and wellbeing of the public including links to e-learning, toolkits, videos, webinars and various publications. Whatever your involvement with the public, these resources will support you in expanding your knowledge and skills to enable you to influence the health of the population.

Highlights:

- Public Health Professionals which includes learning on Literature Searching, Public Health Intelligence and Health Economics and Prioritisation in Public Health
- Health Inequalities - to learn about health inequalities, the effect of these on the quality and length of life of our populations and how sectors and communities can work together to tackle these

Health Protection modules now available: Fundamentals of Health Protection

These sessions have been developed to introduce the foundation skills required for people working within health protection teams.

It will support health protection teams to protect individuals, groups and populations from infectious disease and non infectious public health threats including radiation, chemical and environmental hazards, and manage and minimise the risk of vulnerability to public health events.

The programme includes the following sessions:

1. Introduction to health protection
2. The core principles of infectious disease transmission
3. Health protection case investigation & response
4. Core principles of infectious disease outbreak management

Key audiences for this programme are new team members working in regional health protection teams including specialist registrars and health protection practitioners.

See the following link for more information.

Resources on Sustainable Development and Climate Change

These resources have been created by members of the Faculty of Public Health Sustainable Development Special Interest Group (FPH SD SIG). They aim to support specialty registrars and their educational supervisors in meeting Faculty of Public Health learning outcomes. They also offer information for all consultants and practitioners in public health on sustainable development and climate change.

Each resource is a two-page introductory summary of a major topic in sustainable development, with references and signposts to more detailed information, explaining the relationships between the work of public health practitioners, the causes and effects of climate change, and health.

Eleven resources are currently uploaded – 8 “knowledge” resources:

K1 Principles of sustainable development

K2 Sustainable economy

K3 Climate change – overview

K4 Health impacts of climate change

K5 Health benefits of action on climate change

K6 Natural capital and ecosystem services

K7 Sustainable food systems

K8 Population stabilisation

and 3 “action” resources:

A1 Reducing greenhouse gas emissions \(mitigation\)

A5 Health and nature

A8 Adaptation to climate change and health

CPD questions are included at the end of each resource. Where appropriate, answers can be found in the PDF “CPD Model Answers”.

<https://www.fph.org.uk/policy-campaigns/special-interest-groups/special-interest-groups-list/sustainable-development-special-interest-group/resources-on-sustainable-development-and-climate-change/>

They will be updated periodically by the FPH SD SIG. Comments and suggestions for improvement are welcomed at any time. If you have any comments or suggestions for improvement, please email sdsig@fph.org.uk
